

It is with great excitement that we recognize the final freshman Marauder of the Month. This Marauder's confidence has grown an incredible amount over the past year. She has gained more comfort in presenting in front of her classmates, has joined new athletic teams, and has pushed herself to do her very best in all of her classes. She fully embodies our Marauder values of being curious, courageous, and compassionate!

In English, this student dives head first into any project she's given. She has worked incredibly hard to grow both her informative and narrative writing skills and has written some truly beautiful essays this year. She is not afraid to ask for help, and it is this courage that helps her to continuously gain new skills. In addition, she has used her creativity to design a fun, engaging Genius Hour project where she and her Genius teammates are cooking cuisine from around the world. Her compassion has been evident throughout this project as she has been very conscious of representing various cultures in a thoughtful way.

This student is an optimistic, motivated individual who is always quick to share a smile. In math they have a strong work ethic and their personal motivation is unmatched. This student is a kind-hearted soul who works incredibly well with peers and is always present to help out a friend when they are asked with anything from a math problem to a personal favor. This marauder has put in a ton of effort in math and has really been lovely to have in class.

We are so happy to end the year announcing the fantastic Daisy Cervantes as the final Marauder of the Month of the freshman class of 2025!
