Allied arts News:

Hello from Julie! I'm excited to welcome you (back) to your Art Studio. This is the space for you to be an artist and to create your ideas into reality! As many of you know, the NES Art Studio is choice-based, so young artists are choosing what they want to create and which materials to use. We will start the year off with drawing and gradually open up different centers.

Did you know... NES artwork is currently bringing good cheer to our community. It is displayed in the Green Mountain Family Practice lobby as well as the hallways of the Mayo Healthcare residential wing for seniors. Please note, at this time we are not able to accept any donations. The Art Studio is overflowing with materials - thank you!

News from the Nurse's Office:

Welcome back to school, hope you had a healthy summer. Please let the nurse know if there have been any health changes with your child over the summer.

News from Mr. Gonneville:

Welcome to the start of a new school year! As physical educators, our goal is to assist and support you. You and your family will play a big part in all of us having a successful PE experience. Coming to class each day fully prepared with proper footwear, comfortable, and appropriate clothing. If you ever have questions about these expectations do not hesitate to contact us.

Wellness News from Carly:

Welcome to a new school year at NES! I am thrilled to connect with your children and support NES with the rollout of Character Strong, a fun and engaging Social Emotional Learning Curriculum! All grade levels will be using it during Morning Meeting time as well as during opportune breaks throughout the school day. Here's a welcome information letter to guide you on what to expect with Character Strong. We are starting off the school year focusing on the character trait of RESPECT. We will better understand tools for emotion regulation and conflict management and focus on common goals to Be Kind, Be Well, Be Strong. We will have a great year growing and learning together! Please reach out anytime with thoughts or questions- I'm here to help!
